OUR STORY
ROMANDYCTO.ORG

// THE ROLE

Few jobs ask for so much, from so few people, with so little to compare notes against.

A CTO carries strategy, operations, technology, and craft — all at once. The trends move weekly. The team looks to you for the answer. And the only people who really know what the day feels like are sitting in a different building, doing the same job — alone.

// WHAT THE ROOM IS

A safe room, for peers only.

01

Socialise with peers

People who actually know what the role feels like. No pitching, no consultants, no audience.

OFF THE RECORD

02

Share learnings

Vendor calls, hiring traps, AI rollouts, board reporting — what worked, what didn't, told straight.

HONEST

03

Find a mentor — or be one

Quietly. The members one or two seats ahead of you, and the ones a few seats behind. Both directions matter.

BOTH WAYS

04

Explore opportunities

Roles, partnerships, co-founders, advisors. The warm intros that don't show up on LinkedIn.

WARM ONLY

Where members write for members – and the room talks back

4 yrs

Of evenings

Small enough to know each other – large enough to matter

From a network, toward a reference.

Today

A network

Hundreds of senior tech leaders who know each other by first name — and pick up the phone when it matters.

Tomorrow

A reference voice

An advisory group public bodies, partners and the press know to call when the question is about technology in Romandie.

Beyond

A Swiss reference

A standing seat in the conversations that shape AI sovereignty, digital trust, talent and the runway to 2027 — and beyond.

Always

Peers, first

Whatever else this becomes — the first promise stays. A safe room of peers, off the record, no audience.

// AN INVITATION

If the role feels familiar — the room is yours.

Step 01

Read & apply

romandycto.org/join — a few questions, a quick read.

Step 02

Come to one evening

Meet the room. See if it sounds like the conversation you've been missing.

Step 03

Stay if it fits

No fee, no contract. Just keep showing up — and bring what you'd want to find.
